Changing of the Guard

Personally, I believe that the goodwill trip undertaken in May by the Lycoming College Choir was a truly successful tour. Our primary purpose in visiting Great Britain was to promote good will between our two nations by expressing ourselves through the medium of song. It has become evident to us that we did accomplish this, for several of us have already received newspaper articles and letters "singing" their praises of us because of our concerts!

The real appreciation of our gracious British hosts and hostesses was manifested in several ways - our audiences were especially attentive, and after the concerts and during our stays in their homes, they seemed to go out of their way to make us comfortable and relaxed.

The sightseeing aspect was also a thrill. We had a few "unstructured" days during which we walked through narrow streets in Stratford, visiting Shakespeare's birthplace, for example, or trundled around London in awe because of the crowds, the sights and sounds, its history.

I believe we experienced England in a unique way, by giving of ourselves to our grateful audiences. And I also think we all felt a bit prouder, because we did give to the people on a personal basis, we were not merely tourists. In retrospect, it was quite a tiring visit, since we were constantly moving under a tight schedule, but nothing could have been more rewarding than the smiles, the applause, the real warmth of those happy Britons!

PRESIDENT'S CORNER

Barnstaple, Devon

Dear Principal,

We have just had the opportunity of hearing your college choir, while it was visiting our town of Barnstaple in North Devon.

We really cannot find the words to express the pleasure the choir gave to us. It was an occasion we shall remember.

This letter, however, is to do more than say thank you to you for allowing the choir to come. It is to say that the two young ladies we entertained over-night, Kathy Bowers and Melisse Rougeux, were such good representatives of your country and your college, that we feel we must let you know how much we enjoyed having them to stay with us.

We believe they promoted international understanding, perhaps without realizing it. Their parents and their college have good reason to be proud of them. We wish they could have stayed longer. With sincere regards,

Yours truly,
Stanley and Aylmar Hall

"Queensway" Mount Ambrose
Rednith, Cornwall

... Your choir performed for us on Friday evening last at the Wesley Chapel, here in Rednith... and for two hours had us all spellbound with the quality of their music...

The performance of the choir was excellent, and at every opportunity they were applauded with such enthusiasm that is rarely experienced here...

Earlier today I rang a friend in Newquay (sixteen miles distant) who is associated with the chapel in which your choir gave a concert on Wednesday. She told me that there was a capacity crowd there and that they were given a standing ovation. My friend also told me that she entertained two of the young lady members of the choir and found them very charming. I have also spoken to some local people that entertained some of your choir members, they were all impressed with their visitors...

I hope that you won't mind an outsider giving his version of what happened here just two days ago, but I was so impressed that I felt I couldn't let it pass without getting in touch with someone connected with the college...

My wife joins me in wishing your college every success in the future.

Yours faithfully,
Frank Borlase

We at Lycoming are particularly proud of the fact that the funds to cover tour expenses were raised by the hard work of the choir members. The cooperation of students, alumni, parents, faculty, administrators, and staff members who supported the choir's projects and contributed generously in time and money is sincerely appreciated. Particularly gratifying was the support of local and out-of-town friends and of congregations which invited the choir to give concerts and receive the proceeds. On behalf of the choir, I want to thank everyone who helped give the 1973-74 Lycoming College Choir many memorable experiences.

HAROLD H. HENSON
President of the College

The academic year closed simultaneously with the 126th annual commencement on May 5 and the departure of the College Choir for a concert tour in Great Britain. We are indebted to Dr. Lee F. Tuttle, General Secretary of the World Methodist Council, and Dr. Stanley Leyland, Chairman of the British Methodist Church Exchange Committee, for making the necessary arrangements to present 18 concerts in England, Wales, and Ireland. Just the day before the choir was to visit Ireland, they learned of the unprovoked bombings in Dublin and therefore decided to cancel the three concerts in Cork and Dublin. Several of the churches in which these "ambassadors of friendship" presented their concerts were visited 200 years earlier by John Wesley.

I have already received several letters from parishoners of churches visited. The tones of praise are glowing, as these two examples indicate.

CAMPUS NOTES

SPORTS REPORT

By BRUCE L. SWANGER

STEVEN R. WISER, a June political science graduate and outstanding defensive linebacker during his four years at Lycoming, will return to his alma mater this August as linebacker coach. Steve, a resident of State College and graduate of Bald Eagle Area High School, was cited on numerous occasions during his career for individual game efforts by both the Middle Atlantic Conference and the Eastern College Athletic Conference. Last year Steve made the MAC All-Star team. In the 1972 and 1973 Homecoming games he was selected Most Valuable Player on defense. Steve also starred on the Warrior wrestling team for four years.

W. PAT SCHEMERY, an alumnus of Montoursville High School and Mansfield State College where he played in the defensive secondary, has been named defensive backfield coach. A teacher at Curtin Junior High, Pat's previous coaching experience includes one year each at Bethlehem Freedom High School and Palmerton High School and two years at Mansfield.

Steve and Pat replaced Seth Keller and John Brochetti as part-time members of Frank Girardi's staff when the latter men took new positions which preclude continuation of their coaching activities.

Dear Sir

My daughter, Katharine, recently graduated from Lycoming College and immediately thereafter left with the choir on a tour of England.

First of all, Mrs. Sudekum and I want to express to you and your associates our sincere thanks for the great effort you have spent in giving our daughter a fine education, in teaching her how to study, how to learn, and in preparing her for a road to future study and eventually a professional life. She has spent happy years in Lycoming, thanks to your excellent surroundings and the very fine group of professors.

She returned last night from England full of enthusiasm. While she was there, we received a letter from personal friends who attended the performance in Taunton. Let me quote what they had to say:

"The Methodist church in which the choir was singing is a very old one and apparently John Wesley himself preached there quite frequently. It was a most attractive church and the choir looked so nice when they walked down to the sanctuary to sing - the boys were beautifully dressed in black suits with blue shirts and the girls looked gorgeous in very elegant black frocks and long white gloves. It did one's heart so much good to see all these fresh young faces so obviously enjoying themselves and so wholeheartedly putting all they had got into their songs. The programme chosen was delightful and I was particularly pleased because they sang my favourite Mozart. The quality and standard was so high and the audience was appreciative, so much so that they actually stood at the end for an ovation - quite something for an English audience."

Professor McIver has given our daughter a great deal of help, and apparently the choral tour in England was a very great success.

With our warmest thanks, I remain,

Very truly yours,
Lothar Sudekum

Dear President Hutson:

I read your "Some Uses of Adversity" in the President's Corner of the March issue of "Lycoming." I want to tell you how good it was to read something complimentary about small liberal arts colleges. Right on, President Hutson!

As I am now employed as the secretary to the Director of Planned Giving at Boston University, I suppose I am more sensitive to the financial needs of educational institutions. However, I am also becoming increasingly thankful for the urging my father gave me to attend a small school, Lycoming in particular. I have become increasingly aware of the differences between large universities and small colleges. Naturally, there are good and bad things about both; but I am convinced that the small college was the best choice, by far, for me. Although there is a lot of educational opportunity around a place like this, it is more than one can take advantage of, and it is no more difficult to skip it all, isolating oneself at this campus, than it is for some to isolate themselves from the stimuli at Lycoming. And best of all, I have made lasting friendships with my Lycoming professors and I feel comfortable in writing to you. I thank you care about hearing from me.

Enclosed is a gift from Stan and me. You can be sure that we are planning to do as much for the school as we can. And we are encouraging others - I have a running debate with my boss. I believe he thinks I should feel sorry for not having gone to Boston University, but I feel tremendous about having graduated from Lycoming. You are right "Certain students -- and society --" need Lycoming.

Sincerely,
Clarita Anderman Krall

Dear Dr. Hutson

My wife and I would like to thank you, your staff and faculty for the wonderful four years our son Ken was privileged to spend at Lycoming. Mr. and Mrs. McIver have been wonderful 2nd parents to him and we feel the experience he gained working with the choir was a big supplement to his education.

His exposure to your college and all it encompasses has been a very rewarding experience to him and to us, his parents.

Our sincere thanks.

Sincerely,
Robert W. Barber

EDITOR'S FAREWELL

Since the position of Director of Publications has been eliminated, this is my last issue as editor of LYCOMING. I have appreciated the opportunity to bring you the news about the College and to occasionally express my views about education. Thanks for your responses.

Plans are underway to make Homecoming '74 even more memorable than the highly successful weekend in the fall of 1973.

Students and alumni are working together to offer something for everyone that weekend and hopefully you'll be on campus to enjoy all the events.

A highlight of this year's weekend will be the appearance of the highly acclaimed "Bucknell Jazz and Rock Ensemble." They will be the featured attraction at the "Homecoming Dance" in the Lycoming Hotel Ballroom from 9:00 p.m. to 1:00 a.m. on Saturday night.

The Bucknell Jazz and Rock Ensemble, founded in 1971, plays music which ranges from the classical jazz of Glenn Miller and Count Basie, to the present blend of jazz and rock exemplified by Blood, Sweat and Tears and Buddy Rich to the progressive jazz writings of Don Ellis and Thad Jones.

In January, the ensemble's trip to Europe included performances in Amsterdam, Copenhagen, Munich, Heidelberg, Berlin and Prague, playing 15 concerts for over 7,000 people.

Mark the date now, make your reservations at a Williamsport area motel, and contact some former classmates to do the same.

AREA ALUMNI MEETINGS PLANNED

The College would like to visit with you, The Alumni Office is planning a number of early fall alumni gatherings. Plans now call for meetings with alumni living in the areas of Harrisburg, Pittsburgh, Lancaster, Allentown, Baltimore, Washington, D.C., Philadelphia, North and South Jersey, Rochester and Syracuse. If you are willing to help coordinate one of these meetings, please call or write the Alumni Office, Lycoming College, Williamsport, PA 17701 (717-326-1951, ext. 220).

Representatives of the College will travel to each area meeting to discuss the programs underway at the College as well as her future projections. An audio-visual presentation of the campus will also be used.

Plan to be a part of the alumni gathering in your area. You will receive ample advance publicity.

1974 ANNUAL FUND LAUNCHED

Did you pass the "Spring Quiz" which was mailed to alumni recently? We hope that you read it and that you retained the enclosure envelope and are preparing to mail it back to the College soon.

The 1974 Lycoming College (annual) Fund runs on the calendar year and will close December 31, 1974. Contributions are now being received from alumni, parents and friends of the College. Your support of the Fund this year is urgently needed to help with the sharp rise in costs in the face of decreased revenues.

Area telethons will be held in selected geographical locations in late October. Alumni volunteers will be needed to make the fund a success again this year.
